Hi-fi Prototypes:

This is the mockup for the previous assignment. This changed considerably as I found that the background color was not necessary and that the ability to edit on this screen was a repeat of the product detail page, and thus not something that I should include. These also look like buttons, so I changed it to a state where it is clearly something that you cannot interact with.

This is what it transformed to, with Quantity functionality and non-editable product details aspect to it. The design is also simplified in order to de-clutter the page.
